

Going green tip # 38

Contributed by Alex McAdams
08/05/2008

During winter, open the shades to let the sunlight in. Not only can you save energy in terms of lighting, but the sunlight can aid in heating the room. At night or on days with no sun, shut the shades to keep in the heat. In the summer, keep the shades down to keep the sun and heat out.